

PRESIDENT: Five minutes left.

SENATOR HABERMAN: ..is that we should not advance this bill because according to past history, if the courts follow past history, they will not call it constitutional and the bill says it will go into place if all of these things happen. So, therefore, when I told you yesterday that I had written letters asking for opinions, I think we should wait until those opinions get back. One more point, we are going to pay $3 million a year for 15 years, that is $45 million. You subtract the $20 million, so evidently we are going to pay $25 million in interest on this particular issue on this bill. That hasn't been explained away. There are some other things that haven't been explained away. So at that time, my time should be up, Mr. President, so I will stop.

PRESIDENT: You have a few more minutes.

SENATOR HABERMAN: All right, Mr. President, what is going to happen to the property presently owned by Commonwealth? Why don't we take that property, amend this bill so that the state, the state takes control or gets the title for that property from Commonwealth and help this. We are giving away all the property. They are going to sell the property, the money is going to go into the receiver. So they are going to get more than the money we are giving them. Now, as it is now, this figures out that the settlement is $4,071 for each depositor. Is that fair? Can everybody here from Lincoln and everybody that is for this bill say that $4,000 is fair when they have been saying how many hundreds of thousands of dollars these people lost. So there has got to be more to this issue, members of this body, than just what is in this bill. I am going to again raise the issue of what about the property, what about the money from the sale of that property, it is going to go to the receivership. We have no figure as to how much this is going to amount to. We have no idea how much this has been assessed at. We have no idea of the valuation of this property. So I raise these questions to say to you, let's be careful. Let's kill the bill which I don't think I can get done but I am going to try. Then if we advance it, on Select File let's start asking more questions. So I ask you at this time to IPP 713.

PRESIDENT: Thank you, Senator. The Chair would interrupt
